From Creative Director to business leader to start-up founder, my journey has taken me from London to San Francisco, Nairobi, Hong Kong and Sydney. Along the way I've built world-class teams, grown businesses, and launched brands—first inside network agencies, then with my own independent. Now I'm channelling those lessons into a completely new venture, enhanced by intelligent and purposeful use of AI, which doesn't just help businesses communicate and sell, it helps them find the energy, confidence, alignment and belief to be successful.
